TRANSPORT ROW SHATTERS BOY'S SCHOOL DREAM

Council won't fund 19-mile daily journey for autistic pupil

Richard Brown
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN AUTISTIC boy from Harlow penned a heartbreaking letter after a council transport row denied him the chance to attend his dream school.

Kevin Egan, 11, often came home crying after struggling to learn at mainstream schools, before being offered a place at a school that caters to his needs.

He described the Endeavour School in Brentwood as "awesome" and said all the children were kind and spoke to him.

But despite being accepted to start in September, his dreams were quashed when he was denied publicly-funded transport - meaning he is now likely to go to Harlow Fields School and College.

Heartbreaking

Kevin's heartbreaking note read: "I do not want to go to Harlow Fields because no one talks to me, only the teachers.

"I was crying afterwards because the children do not understand me, I feel sad.

"I made friends at Endeavour because the children are the same as me."

Kevin's school experience became so bad that his mum, Hayley, pulled him out of classes shortly before the end of the previous academic year amid claims he was not getting the help he needed.

PRAYING FOR GOOD NEWS: Kevin Egan had been hoping to attend Brentwood's 'awesome' Endeavour School demarc year amid claims he was not getting the help he needed.

The Harlow mum has since been endlessly fighting to try to find the ideal education for her only son since last September.

After locating the perfect place, she felt happy that her son would no longer hate going to school. But the family were rocked by the news Essex County Council would not pay for the transport to the Endeavour School as it is 19 miles from their home.

She even offered to pay the £90 charge to get a seat for Kevin on the minibus that takes children with learning disabilities in the county to school.

But the council says that if a child whose transport is funded needs a seat on the bus they would take priority and Kevin would then be

Crossrail 2 in Harlow 'will not be ruled out'

Council say they will continue to push for town's inclusion

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

RAIL chiefs have not ruled out the possibility of including Harlow in plans for a major new train line.

Transport for London (TfL) project Crossrail 2 promises fast links to central London along the route which will run between Broxbourne and Chessington, under current proposals.

But Harlow Council is keen for the line to extend to Harlow Town and even Harlow Mill stations, which could offer a boost to the local economy.

TfL estimates 200,000 jobs and the same number of homes will be created by 2060 as a result of Crossrail 2, which is also needed to reduce growing congestion in the capital's transport network.

Chris Curtis, Network Rail's head of Crossrail 2, was open minded about the prospect while Harlow is referenced in a report by the Crossrail 2 Growth Commission.

Mr Curtis: "One of the key findings of the recent West Anglia Taskforce was that quicker rail journeys would benefit Harlow."

"Crossrail 2 is planned to run as far as Broxbourne and would enable a further improvement for Harlow's rail commuters and leisure users by separating the town's fast train services from the slower services that stop at all stations between Broxbourne and London."

But while the Growth Commission report stated Harlow's rising position in the life science and biotech centre means the town would benefit from the investment, there are problems to address.

A commissioner said Crossrail 2 should not be extended to the detriment of Abellio Greater Anglia, the London-Cambridge rail-line franchise holder, which serves the town's stations.

Since being re-awarded the franchise Dutch firm Abellio has pledged large scale improvements to their service which includes faster and more frequent trains from Harlow to London.

Green belt land around Harlow could present another problem for installing infrastructure but the Growth Commission would be making considerations.

The lead commissioner wrote: "There could be additional benefits of Crossrail 2 services stopping at Harlow Town and potentially Harlow Mill, which could enable the local authorities to plan for a higher level of growth."

The fast train connection means towns along the line are expected to become more desirable to commuters looking to move.

Jon Clempner, leader of Harlow Council, said: "The mention of Harlow shows that what this town has to offer in the future as a regional transport and employment hub is being taken seriously.

"It also recognises that four-tracking the West Anglia Mainline is an essential pre-requisite for Crossrail 2, and the benefits that in itself will bring to Harlow."

"A Crossrail 2 terminal in Harlow and increased capacity on the West Anglia mainline would be a game changer."

"It would support greater growth than currently identified and provide significantly increased access to jobs and housing opportunities for local people."

He added: "This issue is something that the council will continue to press for."

"We hope the Government will share the council's commitment to invest in delivering the potential of the town."

Group raises over £3k for the hospice

DOZENS of fundraisers got colourful for St Clare Hospice over the weekend.

The Colour Vibe 5k was held at Nuclear Races near Ongar on Saturday.

The 5k race is a charity run with a difference – participants are showered along the course with brightly coloured powdered paint – making it the most colourful way to support St Clare.

Among those taking part were a team of St Clare supporters from Attwaters Jameson Hill.

A spokeswoman for the hospice said: "Thank you to the amazing Attwaters team for getting pelted with paint in aid of St Clare at the Colour Vibe 5k."

The fundraising total for the hospice has so far reached £3,000, with money still to come in.

Kirsten Dalby, a student physiotherapist from Bishop's Stortford who completed a work placement at St Clare in July raised £700 for the charity.

Mum's festival to mark decade of bereavement

Anti-knife crime music event in memory of Tommy Jones

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW mother has organised a charity festival to campaign against knife crime on the tenth anniversary of her son's death.

Tommy Jones, who grew up in The Hides, Harlow, died from fatal stab wounds in an incident in Beckton, East London, on August 31, 2006.

The 16-year-old had just finished school and was due to become a father but tragically never got to see his son, who is also named Tommy and is now aged nine.

His mother Mel Hopwood, who now lives in Berecroft, Harlow, said: "Our lives have been destroyed and things will never be the same again."

"Our family is living a life sentence. I will never understand it but we have got to learn to live with it."

"The feeling is still very, very, raw." She added: "I am still having counselling. The fact it is now ten years, it is like we have gone back to the first year."

A decade ago Tommy had recently finished his exams at Essex Fresh Start school in Chelmsford, and had travelled to Beckton to visit his cousin when the incident happened.

The man accused of murdering Tommy was found not guilty at a trial.

Describing her son, Miss Hopwood said: "All his friends remember him as being very lovely, and very smiley. He had a very cheeky grin."

"He was no angel. He was not perfect, but he was my son and I loved him to bits. He was very well-known in Harlow, his friends used to call him

MISSED: Tommy Jones

Harlow's top boy. His was one of the biggest funerals ever conducted (in Harlow) at the time."

Miss Hopwood has campaigned against knife crime ever since, and has been busy organising her fourth awareness event - FAMFEST - since April last year.

She has previously organised other music events, and also contributed to information website knifecrime.org and spoken at various schools.

Musicians

FAMFEST, a free family fun day, will feature music from The Artful Dodger, well known for their hit single Rewind, as well local musicians.

It will be held from 2pm to 7pm on Sunday, September 4, at The Bandstand at Harlow Town Park, which was a special place for Tommy, who liked to meet his friends there.

Miss Hopwood has four other children: Ambrose Jones, 27, Naomi Jones, 19, Alfie Wilson, 11 and Delicia Wilson, who is 15 and will also perform at the concert.

CAMPAIGNER: Tommy's mum Mel Hopwood

She said: "It has been very hard to organise, both emotionally and physically. Most of the acts are family and friends."

"The Artful Dodger said yes straight away, and a lot of the acts will perform songs written about Tommy and about knife crime. There are songs calling people to put down their weapons."

"Other families who have been victims of knife crime will be coming too and wearing t-shirts of their lost loved ones."

She added: "We are not raising any money, I just want to raise awareness of knife and violent crime, while remembering victims."

"If we can just help one family or one person from getting hurt then we will have achieved something."

Heartbroken boy pens a letter over school woe stuck.

Single mum Hayley, 34, said: "Now we've found the perfect school for him, but the council are refusing to help us get him there."

"It has been horrific and just heart-breaking and the stress of it all has caused me to have a breakdown."

Essex County Council says funding was refused because the school, which is for pupils with moderate learning disabilities, is not the closest one that fits Kevin's needs.

Instead, it wants him to go to Harlow Fields school, which caters for severe, moderate and complex learning disabilities.

Kevin had autism diagnosed in 2010 and was also given a diagnosis of ADHD last month.

Hayley, who is Kevin's full-time carer, said as part of his autism Kevin is extremely chatty and gets frustrated when he is not being listened to.

She said that, as the children at Harlow Fields would not be able to interact with him, it will be a huge problem and will do more harm, even if his academic needs were met.

Hayley has no other means of getting Kevin to the school in Brentwood as she does not have a driver's licence.

Now the mum feels at her wits' end over the situation as she just wants the best for her son, who is registered disabled.

Hayley added: "Kevin already has a place with the school, that's not the problem. I just can't get him there and I need help, but no one will help me."

Essex County Council was unavailable for comment.

TICKS: Action to be taken to prevent further dogs from contracting babesiosis

Work begins to help stop the spread of 'killer' ticks

Precautions aim to make poor habitat

CLIVE Swainsbury, practice partner at Forest Veterinary Centre group, treated three dogs which had been taken seriously ill after contracting a strand killer disease babesiosis following an outbreak of ticks on a land in Harlow earlier this year.

Minimise

This week, Mr Swainsbury said: "As far as I am aware the council are doing all they can to minimise the risk and spread of babesia under the advice of government agencies (APHA and Public Health England).

"My understanding is that the work is being conducted not so much to 'kill' the ticks as to make the habitat poor for the lifestyles of small mammals who will spread the ticks and disease.

"This reduction in vectoring is as much as I am aware they can do."

Councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for environment and member champion for highways and infrastructure, said: "It is very unlikely that we will be able to completely remove all the ticks carrying babesiosis.

"However, this work timed before new ticks develop should reduce the number of ticks in the area over time. Experts have warned that ticks carrying this disease are very likely to be found in other areas in the same way that they got onto the land in Harlow, so this is very much about trying to control the issue and seeing what could help reduce the problem.

"Harlow with its green open spaces has many popular areas for dog walkers so it's important we do what we can to reduce the problem. We also know residents are very protective of their green spaces so we want them to be aware of this work and the reasons for it.

"It is important that dog owners consult their vets about anti-tick treatment and regularly check their dogs for ticks.

"If dog owners have reason to be concerned about their pet's health they should seek advice from their vet immediately."

WORKS: The field where the ticks were found has been cordoned off for the past few months

Your view

■ Kathy Donovan Rodmell said: "Finally they are going to try and sort out the problem.

"But ticks are found everywhere so as for myself a dog owner it's up to me to keep checking my dogs over.

"As for the fence, that was put up to stop people walking their dogs through it as there was loads of ticks there."

■ Tony Poole said: "Well that took a bloody long time. Have all the deadly ticks behaved and stayed behind the fence?"

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

MEASURES intended to reduce the number of ticks carrying babesiosis on land off Third Avenue in Harlow is set to begin this week before a new generation of adult ticks develops.

The area of land where these rare ticks were found has been fenced off by Harlow Council since April to stop dog owners walking in the affected area.

Serious

Babesiosis is a disease that can have serious implications for dogs; fortunately there have been no further reports from vets of any dogs becoming ill since April.

There have been no reports of ticks carrying canine babesiosis on any other land in Harlow.

Work will start to try to limit the number of ticks and reduce the problem spreading by removing bushes and undergrowth and burning these on site and reducing the length of the grass.

The measures and their timing are designed to disrupt the life cycle of ticks by discouraging small animals from the area that act as hosts for these ticks as they develop. It is also timed to avoid unnecessary disruption to other wildlife in the area.

Following the work the fence will remain in place to stop dogs accessing the area with further tick monitoring activity planned later this year to see what affect the work has had.

The council has taken advice from the Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs on the practical steps it can take and the time of the year to do it.

In the UK, there has never been an effective method identified which will completely eradicate any types of ticks from the natural environment.

Unfortunately there are no pesticides licensed for use in the environment that are known to be effective against ticks.

Burning the land including the grass would be an extreme measure to take, especially next to a main road and homes and where trees are located, and this might put both the safety of the public and small animals at risk.

Teens rescued after becoming trapped in mud

Helicopter called to search for youngsters

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

TWO teenage girls had to be rescued by police after becoming trapped in mud while they walked just outside Harlow.

The 13-year-olds, both from Harlow, had been following a canal path from The Stow but got into trouble after walking through marshland off Eastwick Road, Gilston, on Monday.

Essex Police searched the area with a helicopter after a distress call and found one girl up to her waist in mud, and her friend up to her knees.

One of the girls called 999 at 3.45pm but was unsure of the precise location.

Two members of the public assisted officers by providing mooring ropes, which were thrown to the girls to tie around their waists. Attempts were made to pull them free but they were in too deep.

A broom handle and a shovel were used to help dig out enough mud from around them and they were helped out of the marsh. Both were pulled to safety by 5.15pm.

The fire service, Hertfordshire Constabulary and the ambulance

RESCUED: The girls got stuck in marshland off Eastwick Road, Gilston service were also called to the scene.

Paramedics checked both girls for injuries and one was taken to hospital with an ankle injury.

PC Tom Lennon, one of the officers who attended the scene, said: "The girls had stepped off the main canal path and down a grass bank on to what they thought was a bridgeway.

"Unfortunately they stepped into a peaty bog and one of the girls tripped, causing her to fall into the mud up to her waist.

"It was fortunate they had a mobile phone to dial 999 as they were not sure of their location and were found in a secluded spot.

"Luckily neither was seriously injured, but it is important for walkers to stay on established footpaths when exploring marshy or coastal areas of the county and to be vigilant, especially in areas you are unfamiliar with."

Essex Police thanked all those who assisted with the rescue.

THERE was another bumper crop of A levels across Harlow as young people picked up their results.

Fresh from their recent educational trip to Ghana, where they climbed the highest mountain and the tallest waterfall, students secured Harlow College's position at the top for student progress.

Principal Karen Spencer said: "Our A-level students have had a fantastic summer and have achieved another set of brilliant results.

"This is down to their hard work and dedication, as well as the excellent teaching and support from our teachers.

Credit

"They are a credit to Harlow and are not just satisfied with academic progress, but have also taken part in volunteering in schools in Ghana, fundraised for many local and national charities, and taken part in the National Citizenship Service and Harlow College's Young Professionals Scheme."

For the sixth year in a row, the college achieved a 100 per cent pass rate and an impressive 57 per cent of students achieving A*-B grades - four per cent above the national average.

Among the top performing students were Abby Whitnall, 19, Harlow MP Robert Halfon added: "As Harlow MP and the new Minister for Further Education I am incredibly proud yet again. Since being MP for Harlow I have visited Harlow College 36 times. I love going there because the college is a lighthouse for Harlow and for its students, parents, employers and teachers. It is a lighthouse to other educational institutions up and down our country."

There were also smiles at St Mark's West Essex Catholic School where students and staff were celebrating a "remarkable year". Many people secured places at university, often the first in their family to do so.

Initial results indicate another superb pass rate was achieved with a 95 per cent pass rate and 60 per cent pass rate with grades at

A*-C. Head teacher, Elaine Heaphy, said: "We are delighted for the students, they should be proud of their achievements and we wish them all the best for their future endeavours."

"Certainly, I would like to put on record my thanks to students, staff and parents for what was an exemplary team effort."

"Our sixth form draws from all the other schools in Harlow and we congratulate these schools for their work in successfully getting these students through GCSE studies and giving them the grounding for A-level study.

"We are sure that they will share in this success. We look forward to welcoming the 'new' Year 12 cohort in September."

A particular feature of the school's results is that the students, whatever their ability, have achieved well and made more than expected progress, with many overcoming difficult personal circumstances to do so.

Ms Heaphy added: "To achieve these results in light of the many recent government reforms which have seen examinations become more challenging and demanding, is testimony to the skill of our teachers, the work of the students, the support of their families and the success of our sixth form."

Outstanding

There were many examples of outstanding individual performances.

Among the students securing the top grades were:

- Joe Brett (A, A, B) who will read politics and international relations at City University
- Joel Chan (A, A, A) reading biochemistry at Kings College
- Alex Elia (A*, A, B) reading sports studies at Northampton
- Jannis Sanozids (A*, A, A, A) reading mathematics at Warwick
- Melissa Selwood (A, B, B) reading international business at Loughborough

Short-term fixes not the answer

SIR, I noticed John Curry's letter but wonder if this was written prior to him taking part in the latest walkabout. If so, I'm sure he will recall that we discussed each of these issues, and he was informed about the replanting in the red pots, the need for a general clean-up of privately-owned buildings as well as several other new short-term initiatives such as new signage, lighting and seating.

The walkabout tour is also about the major challenges that the town centre faces as well as the opportunities.

I introduced the walking meetings as they allow us to get up close and see the issues directly.

The current discussions are no longer about short-term fixes as, while they will improve the environment, they ignore the major issues about future use of the centre.

I would also like to make it clear that we don't have all the answers, as over 80 per cent of all the buildings are owned and managed by private companies.

We are having the same discussion with businesses to understand what they would like, and to tell them what Harlow needs.

The tours are about looking at environment, buildings, paving, access (not just for cars), lighting, and safety.

We have been asking, what is the future purpose of the centre?

Should a centre have a wider appeal around leisure, art and culture not just shopping and eating?

Why should we come into the town centre just to spend money?

Should we instead have public areas to meet friends and family?

The disused market area, for example, could be redeveloped into a green area.

Should a centre be about people and not just about profit?

Why have empty buildings when we use them to support more housing?

Over the August bank holiday, officers and I will be holding a stall in the town to seek the views of the wider community.

We're planning to hold stall outside the town centre as well to gain even more insight into how the wider community can influence the debate.

We're also planning more walking tours in September.

I'm delighted that many people are engaged in this debate on social media and would encourage more to add to the richness of the discussion.

Whilst I accept the cynical concerns of the civic society, it will not deter this council or me from doing its very best for the whole of the community.

We have to get this right for the benefit of not only today's Harlow

Star reader Brian Davies, of Little Pynchons, Harlow, captured this image. It was taken in his kitchen through the window. He said: "This photo was taken while enjoying the weather in Latton Bush park, Southern Way, on Monday, August 15.

"Which species of butterfly do you think it is?" If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

community but for tomorrow's Harlow community.

So yes, the short-term solutions are being implemented, but this is only the start - this is a marathon not a sprint.

Portfolio Holder for Regeneration and Enterprise, Harlow Council

Swearing judge - what a woman!

SIR, Regarding the news article about Judge Patricia Lynch in this week's Star - she must be sick and tired seeing the same people in front of her time and again who seem - for whatever reason - to be impervious to the British justice system.

Well done for responding to this man in a language he can understand - she is brilliant - what a woman!

Chris Duncan

Thank you for handing in purse

SIR, I would like to thank the kind lady that handed in my handbag that I carelessly left in a shopping trolley at the Aldi store in The Stow, Harlow.

I hope that someone will do something nice for you today.

They don't care about parking

SIR, In response to Susan Doble's letter in this week's Star, the answer to her question is that the council are going to do nothing about the parking - they simply just don't care.

Cars are now parked not only on pavements but on corners of junctions causing difficulty with turning into a new road, over dropped kerbs, alongside bus stops, on grass verges and practically anywhere there is a space available a car will be parked.

There are laws on where we can and can't park but to enforce them seems to be "somebody else's problem".

It won't be too long before cars are parked on roundabouts, across pedestrian crossings, at traffic lights and anywhere they can find a space.

In this day and age where it seems every member of a family has a car, then some responsibility has to be taken by the owners on whether there is room for another car.

The council could help by turning large areas of green verges into parking areas (such as seen alongside Southern Way) or do something about the garages that stand empty because of high rents and lack of security or lighting.

Those of us that do rent garages pay a lot of money but cannot get repairs done or even a lick of paint despite spending thousands of pounds over the years on rent; where does this money go?

Come on Harlow Council start taking responsibility and do something about parking.

Name and address supplied

Another gym not a step forward

SIR, We've lost M&S and now also lost BHS. In place of M&S were getting yet another gym and yet another jewellers!

Can someone explain to me just how this is considered to be "keeping up to date and moving forward"?

Whoever is responsible for these planning decisions won't be happy until the town consists solely of coffee shops, gyms and sports shops.

Just what is it about Harlow town that it cannot keep any decent shops?

Ron Johnson
Radburn Close, Harlow

What happened to vibrant town?

SIR, A big thank you for Danny Purton in giving us a detailed rota of grass cutting while sitting at his desk.

It would make more sense for him and his colleagues to get on their bikes (or legs) and travel the cycle tracks of Harlow and see the disgusting state of the environment he is supposed to represent.

The amount of rubbish, the hedges overlapping to create unwalkable pathways.

The trees, some have not been lopped for over 60 years - all need immediate attention.

Cooks Spinney woods has become the second garden waste dumping depot.

The council could take on some people for training as tree surgeons, arborists, rather than what we have now, clueless.

Or are the council waiting for an accident to happen?

Please do not say we don't have the money - we are awaiting money on the town centre, which is slowly dying, the Town Park, Pets' Corner, there is more to Harlow.

What happened to town-wide action groups? Let's revive them.

Having lived in Harlow for 65 years, my memory is good for the vibrant town it once was.

Youngsters at pre-school going for gold

INSPIRED by the events in Rio, children at a Harlow pre-school enjoyed competing at their own mini-Olympic Games.

Youngsters at Busy Bees Nursery, in Harlow Business Park, completed running and throwing activities as well as their own equestrian event, completed on model horses.

Louise Christie, nursery manager, said: "All week the children have been watching the Olympics at home with their parents so when they come into nursery they are excited about it and naturally want to get involved themselves.

"Many of the children will be too young to remember the last Olympics so it's a unique experience and it gives us the opportunity to talk about some of the history behind the Games."

But while the friendly competition encouraged the pupils to try their best, Busy Bees promoted the message that it is the taking part that counts.

Ms Christie added: "By hosting our own miniature Olympic Games we have the opportunity to build on skills like sharing, hand-eye co-ordination and learning how to be part of a team, which are all important to a child's overall development. It's not about winning or losing for us, it's about getting out into the fresh air and enjoying learning new games."

Train fares are to increase in the new year

Season ticket will rise to £3.5k annually

Michael Jarvis

michael.jarvis@hertssexnews.co.uk

RAIL passengers will be asked to fork out yet more money for their tickets next year, with regulated fares to rise by 1.9 per cent.

The hike is based on July's Retail Prices Index (RPI) inflation measure, which was confirmed this morning by the Office for National Statistics.

With the cost of a 12-month season ticket from Harlow Town to London Liverpool Street currently £3,432, the increase will see commuters having to shell out just a few pounds shy of £3,500.

Ministers have said previously that regulated fares, including season tickets, will inflate by no more than RPI for the rest of this Parliament. Unregulated fares can go up by as much as train operators like.

The rise, to take effect from January, will be one of the lowest annual increases since railways were privatised.

However, it comes following trade union research that indicates ticket prices have increased at double the speed of wages since 2010.

Frances O'Grady, general secretary of the Trades Union Congress, said: "Rail passengers are paying more and getting even less. Fares go up while trains remain overcrowded, stations are unstaffed, and rail companies cut the guards who ensure journeys run smoothly and safely.

"Enough is enough. It's time for rail services to be publicly owned, saving money for passengers and taxpayers alike.

"Instead of increasing fares and cutting staff, we should be building an accessible, reliable train service that Britain can be proud of."

His calls have been backed by various other union chiefs, with Manuel Cortes, general secretary of the Transport Salaried Staffs' Association, asking for fares to be frozen.

Rail Minister Paul Maynard said: "Wages are growing faster than train ticket prices thanks to action by the government and our commitment to cap regulated rail fares in line with inflation will save annual season ticket holders £425 on average in the five years to 2020."

The Rail Delivery Group, which represents train operators and Network Rail, said it was spending £50 billion over the next few years to upgrade the country's railways and that passengers had to contribute.

Award-winning estate will open doors to public

Architecture to be celebrated at events

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW estate will feature in a weekend-long programme of events celebrating Essex's role in 20th-century architecture.

On Sunday, September 11, 180 Bishopsfield will be opened up at various times throughout the day for anyone to explore and view the property's quirky design.

Scores of buildings will be simultaneously opened up around the county as part of ESSEX Architecture Weekend, which is being organised by Radical Essex.

Bishopsfield, which won a Civic Trust award in 1968, was chosen to feature as the estate has an unusual story. It was designed by 24-year-old graduate Michael Neylan after a competition in 1961.

The L-shaped flats, with between one and five bedrooms, are arranged around a courtyard in an attempt to create a Mediterranean-style atmosphere.

NOTEWORTHY: Bishopsfield in Harlow will open for tours

The two-day festival will pivot around three key sites: The Bata Estate in East Tilbury, Silver End, and Printon-On-Sea.

Visitors can tour the county in free shuttle buses, participate in walking tours and open house visits at venues including The Royal Corinthian Yacht Club in Burnham-on-Crouch.

Talks will be given by architects and historians: Gillian Darley, Elizabeth Darling, Owen Hatherley, Charles Holland and Jonathan Meades.

Joe Hill, who is leading Radical Essex, said: "Through this project we are excited to have the opportunity to share and celebrate the important role Essex has played in the development of contemporary architecture in the UK."

"This is apparent not only in the design styles, but in the varied and radical approaches to social structures.

"It is utterly unique in this regard, and yet so underrepresented.

"We hope that this programme will help to encourage people to reflect on the innovative past of the county, in order to promote experimental and pioneering building for the future."

The house will be opened up for viewing every 30 minutes from 10.30am to 5pm.

To book your place on the Bishopsfield estate tour, visit: www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/essex-architecture-weekend-tour-of-180-bishopsfield-estate-tickets-26839243901.

TOAST: Hospital staff salute Dr Alice Dain's long service at Princess Alexandra Hospital with a ceremony

Long-serving doctor celebrated at party

AFTER 26 years and six days a long-serving doctor has finally said goodbye to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Friends and colleagues thanked Alice Dain, a consultant geriatrician, for her energy and enthusiasm at a celebration party in the hospital, based in Hamstel Road, Harlow.

She said: "Working at PAH has been like working with a family and it is hard to say goodbye to that."

"However, I have got plenty to keep me occupied. I have every confidence in the future generation of doctors, from junior to senior. I think you are all fantastic."

Dr Dain is a keen cyclist and skier, which was reflected in the decoration of her farewell cake designed by Harlow bakers Dawn's Cake Couture.

Some of her epic achievements include climbing to the base camp of Mount Everest, cycling from London to Paris and completing the Ride London 100-mile cycle event three times.

She is also well-regarded in the hospital for her training of the junior doctors and care taken in dealing with patients.

Andy Morris, chief medical officer at PAH, recently bestowed her with an award for clinical excellence.

He said: "It will take two or three people to fill the gap Alice will leave. In her 26-year tenure she has been instrumental in the development of the Princess Alexandra Hospital's geriatric services."

"The post Alice-era will be difficult. We will miss that energy, drive, enthusiasm, commitment and respect she commands throughout the hospital. We wish her all the best, and hope she enjoys her well-deserved retirement."

Council invests £27.7m in homes

Supported housing will be built under the new Independent Living programme

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

ESSEX County Council (ECC) is investing up to £27.7 million to meet increasing demand for housing options that can support and enable older people to live independently.

ECC's Independent Living programme will see 1,800 new Independent Living homes, with 24-hour care and support on-site, created around the county between now and 2021.

ECC's investment will enable eligible older people in the county – who would otherwise be housed in residential care, or receive domiciliary care in a home of their own that may no longer meets their needs – to live independently.

ECC's deputy Cabinet member for aged care, Councillor Malcolm Maddocks, said: "This is a defining moment in the way we care for our older residents. Our investment in the Independent Living programme will mean people can retain independence but still have the reassurance of 24-hour care on-site, as well as community facilities which will keep them connected to their friends and neighbours."

Independent Living housing is also known as Extra Care or Assisted Living housing. Currently, there are only 429 homes of this type in Essex.

The primary difference between Independent Living housing and other types of specialist housing for older people is the availability of 24-hour care and support on-site.

ECC's investment is providing funding incentives to assist developers in delivering new Independent Living schemes. Each scheme contains around 60 flats.

In addition to enabling older people to live independently, the investment will see ECC make long-term financial savings through more efficient delivery of care to residents.

Independent Living homes are modern, spacious, easy to maintain and designed to meet residents' changing needs.

They feature: one or two bedrooms, living room, fitted kitchen, built-in oven and electric hob and bathroom with en-suite access.

To be eligible for Independent Living housing an individual must be aged 55 or over, have a care need of at least six hours per week and a family connection to the local area of the scheme.

To express an interest about living in an Independent Living scheme, contact ECC's customer service centre on 0345 6037630 or email social-care@essex.gov.uk.

Visit www.essex.gov.uk/indyliving for more.

"Last year we raised £22,180 which was fantastic. This year we hope, with the support of businesses across the county, to smash that record."

Named after the charity's bright yellow helicopter, Go Yellow, is in its fourth year and is running from September 19 to 25.

In brief

Man is found injured near parade of shops

HARLOW: A man was found unconscious near a parade of shops in Harlow after reports of a disturbance in the early hours of Friday morning.

Essex Police were called to Parnall Road after reports of a man in his 20s seen arguing with two other men shortly after 2am.

Witnesses reported that he was then punched and kicked, and hit on the head with a metal bar.

Officers responding to the call found a man unconscious near the Staple Tye Shopping Centre at 2.10am.

He was taken to hospital where his injuries have been described as potentially life-changing.

Firefighters called to tackle blaze in field

HARLOW: Firefighters tackled a blaze in a corn field off Fern Hill Lane in Harlow last Wednesday.

Two fire crews from Harlow fire station and one from Old Harlow fire station attended the scene along with Essex Police. They were called shortly after 3pm.

On arrival, crews reported that 100m x 150m of the field was on fire.

Firefighters used two hose reel jets and six beaters to tackle the blaze.

Appeal after vehicle driven at man in 20s

HARLOW: Detectives are appealing for witnesses after a man was injured following an incident in Netteswell Orchard, Harlow.

The incident happened at around 3.40am on Sunday, August 14, when a grey Audi Q7 car was driven at a man, aged in his 20s, who suffered swelling to his arm and cuts to his hand as a result. The car then left the scene.

Anybody with information should call Essex Police on the non-emergency number, 101.

Social for bike fans to be hosted by pub

HARLOW: Motorbike enthusiasts are invited to gather at The Small Copper pub for a social evening next week.

The bikers' night is open to anyone with an interest in the transportation. They will meet at the pub in Momples Road, Harlow, from 7.30pm on Wednesday, August 31.

Neil Barber, who has organised the meeting, said there is a possibility of the group becoming a regularity if there is a demand. Entry is free.

From scooters to superbikes, anything is up for discussion. For more information call Mr Barber on 07712353346.

Gang sentenced after police raid properties

Cops swooped on addresses across two counties

Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertsexnews.co.uk

MEMBERS of a major drugs gang has been jailed for almost half a century for supplying drugs around Herts and Essex.

Hertfordshire police's organised crime squad swooped on addresses in Cheshunt, Ware, Hoddesdon, Harlow and Norfolk as part of an operation targeting drug baron Bradley Stantiford.

Stantiford, of Market Court, Hoddesdon, was sentenced today (Friday, August 19) at Chelmsford Crown Court along with ten people who worked for him between January and October last year.

The 40-year-old pleaded guilty to planning to supply cocaine and was jailed for eight years.

He was the head of a drugs distribution network and had a number of people working for him at different locations. They would move, store and supply drugs for him.

A "safe house" used to store

LEAD: Superintendent Dave Wheatley

their gear in Windmill Road, Stansted Mountfitchet, was among those raided, where officers found more than one and a half kilos of cocaine - 85 per cent pure.

Head of Serious and Organised Crime, Superintendent Dave Wheatley, said: "This was a complex and protracted investigation into an established organised crime group who were operating a hierarchical method of leadership and were involved in the trafficking of controlled drugs across the south east of England.

"The group preyed on vulnerable members of society for their own financial gain without care or consideration for the impact or the misery caused by their actions.

"This court result is a positive one and sends a message to those involved in the trafficking of controlled drugs that their actions will draw attention from the police and will not be tolerated.

"My teams will continue to actively target those responsible in the supply of controlled drugs to ensure that the community is protected from such groups."

During the course of the investigation three kilos of cocaine and more than four kilos of cutting agents such as Benzocaine and Boric acid were seized.

In total the gang were jailed for 46 years.

Jonathan Chilcott, 26, of High Street, Harlow, managed the safe house and pleaded guilty to supplying cocaine and was jailed for eight years.

Driver Scott Webb, 29, of Harlow High Street, was sentenced to six years in prison for the same offence.

Stephen Till, 28, of Hipkins Place, Broxbourne, was caged for five years and Matthew Hunt, 31, who lived in the safe house and possessed a stun gun, was jailed for four years.

Ground-level dealer Louis Croke, 22, of Broomfield Avenue, Broxbourne, was handed a five year sentence and 28-year-old Joanne O'Brien, of Old Mill Road, Saffron Walden, was jailed for four years.

Andrew Seaforth, 41 and known as 'Wig' or 'Wiggy', of Marshalls Lane, Ware, was found guilty of conspiring to supply cocaine and sentenced to six years in jail.

Stantiford's lover Natalie Peirce, 32, of Barleycroft, Harlow, cash-cow Claire Godden, 37, of Nordolph in Norfolk, and Claire Hollis, 29, of Little Canfield in Essex, were handed varying suspended sentences.

Man, 35, is sentenced to eight months for burglary

A 35-YEAR-OLD man who burgled the Ecco charity premises in Harlow stealing just £22 has been jailed for eight months.

Martin Pink, of West Avenue, Chelmsford, pleaded guilty to the burglary carried out on July 15.

Judge Christopher Morgan at Chelmsford Crown Court said: "This occurred days after your last appearance in court."

Judge Morgan imposed six months for the burglary and two months consecutive for the breach of a suspended sentence imposed on July 11 at Chelmsford Magistrates Court

Shoplifting

Pink also admitted a string of shoplifting offences involving high street shops such as Boots and Marks and Spencer. The court was told that he had been addicted to Class A drugs.

Michael Edmonds, mitigating, said: "He's struggled with the effects of Class A addiction and committed low level offences to feed his addiction. This was committed five days after his previous offences."

As he jailed Pink Judge Morgan told him: "You've pleaded guilty to a commercial burglary at a charity shop involving a small amount of cash. You know the only sentence I can impose is one of custody."

Previously, the Star reported how the community had helped get the shop which sells furniture and homeware at the premises in West Road, Harlow, back in action.

Ecco at Harlow, which also has shops in Epping and Bishop's Stortford, raises money for Parndon Wood Nature Reserve in the town.

Subway Billy to perform at town's farm

THE Subways' frontman Billy Lunn will give an acoustic performance at Herts and Essex Community Farm in Fold Croft, Harlow.

The rural gig will also include music from Charlotte Howell and The Little Women while all ticket buyers can enjoy food from an all you can eat barbecue, with a vegetarian option available.

Doors open at 5pm on Wednesday, September 14 and music begins from 6pm. Tickets are now on sale for £15 and £10 for concessions.

Children are welcome to attend but must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Battling a Firenado

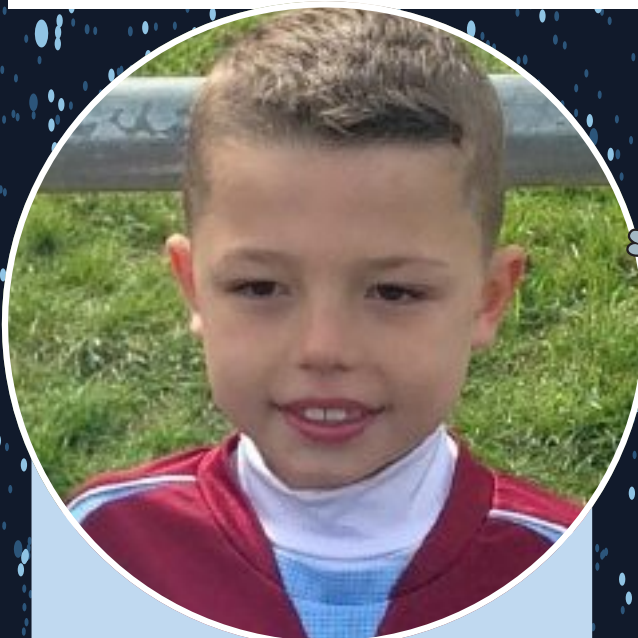

Tornado-like flaming vortexes - known as "firenadoes" - have been spotted across the US where states are battling a swathe of ferocious wildfires.

Dramatic footage captured by firefighters in California, Oregon and Colorado shows crews battling to tackle the phenomenon, also known as "fire whirls", whipped up when rising heat combines with turbulent winds.

One was filmed in the 36,000-acre Beaver Creek fire in Routt National Forest in northern Colorado on Sunday.

The most recent was captured on Monday by a crew in California where around 82,000 people have been told to evacuate their homes under threat from a wildfire which has already destroyed 40 square miles of mountains and desert east of Los Angeles.

HOMES AND GARDENS

Get your mind on the gutter

Autumn's on the horizon and before the trees start to shed their leaves, it's a good idea to check your home's guttering to pre-empt problems later

GUTTERING is designed to protect your home's exterior walls from rain by channelling water from the roof to a drain in the ground via the gutters, which run horizontally, and downpipes, which run vertically. If they develop a problem or become blocked, you can get water penetration and damp inside your home and if the problem's left unchecked, the damp can become severe.

■ Most gutters and downpipes are plastic these days, which are cheaper, lighter and easier to work with than metal ones, but many period properties still have the original cast-iron guttering. Over time, these can rust and eventually start to disintegrate. When doing building work, you often have to replace cast-iron soil pipes and the waste pipes going into them, so you can get rid of waste from kitchens and bathrooms, or change the layout of these rooms.

■ While plastic guttering is often a better option, if you live in a listed building and it has cast-iron guttering, you'll probably have to replace it like-for-like - consult your local council's conservation office first, as you may need listed building consent. Planning permission may sometimes be required to replace guttering if, for example, your home's permitted development rights have been removed - ask your local council if in doubt.

■ To stop gutters getting blocked, consider fitting gutter guards (try the Wickes Black Gutter Leaf Guard, £5.69 for 4m). These are grates that block debris but still allow rainwater to get through. Alternatively, try the Hedgehog Gutter Brush (www.hedgehoggutterbrush.com), which is a hedgehog-like brush that sits in the gutter and keeps out leaves and other debris because they are deflected by it or get stuck on the 'spines'. If you don't have something like this fitted, it's advisable to make regular checks for blockages, especially when the leaves are falling from the trees.

■ Leaves are one of the main culprits when it comes to blocked gutters, but you can find all kinds of things in them, including plants happily growing away. If you notice that water is dripping or falling sharply from one place when it's raining, or dripping even after the rain has stopped, this is usually where the blockage - or another problem, such as a faulty seal - is. Use a watering can to fill the gutter with water if you think there's a problem, but it's not raining, to make it easier to spot.

Make yourself a shady spot

While sun worshippers will always head for the hottest spot in the garden, a shady spot can add peace, calm and tranquillity to any open space. Hannah Stephenson looks at how to create a shady haven

When the mercury soars, some gardeners enjoy the peace and calm of a cool, shady haven.

Yes, we can all crouch under the sun umbrella, but it's just not very pretty, is it? And I'm afraid I don't go for canvas gazebos either, even if they are practical, what with all those metal poles and coach bolts.

So how else can you create shade in a sunny spot?

Awnings are another option and can add a splash of colour if you need it.

But they have to be situated in the right spot, can be expensive and if your patio is windy, they may be vulnerable.

One idea which can be effective is to train leafy climbers over an arch to create a retreat.

If you have a wooden bench, you could place some sort of arch over it and grow climbers in pots or in the earth on either side, to train up it and provide colour as well as some shade.

A light-roofed structure, such as a pergola, can also provide relief from the sun, as you can train climbers over the crossbeams, providing more hours of shade.

Pergolas are usually made from timber or metal, with a horizontal trellis laid on top.

They are usually built out from the house or a wall, often positioned directly above a patio and, as well as providing shade, they also put paid to nosy neighbours who may want to know what you're up to. Ideal trailers to use on pergolas include sweet-smelling roses, honeysuckle or clematis.

You can buy kits from DIY stores and big garden centres consisting of timber uprights and cross pieces to put together yourself, or alternatively have a local builder do it.

If plants aren't creating your shade, you can add colour and texture to a shady spot with hostas and ferns, heucheras and hydrangeas, adding further splashes of colour with shade-tolerant Busy Lizzies, stocks, violas and nicotiana.

freestanding structure in the sun often do better than when planted against a wall or fence because there is no restriction of light.

If the structure - arch or pergola - is big enough, virtually any climber will be suitable, but if the gap is only small, avoid roses with sharp thorns or other bushy plants.

And remember that a combination of climbers which flower at different times will provide colour to your patio for longer and create an attractive mix. For big structures, you could train wisteria, laburnum and a late-flowering clematis.

Trellis is another useful commodity to help create shade in a sunny spot. Panels with curved tops are available to make useful screens to shelter the patio.

Arbours are another option for shade. They are open-sided structures, usually set over a sitting area in an informal part of the garden, and while they may not suit the patio area, you could always move down the garden to sit in an arbour smothered with fragrant climbers.

Remember before you start, though, to experiment with temporary shade before investing in time and money to create permanent shade.

If you have that old sun umbrella, move it around the patio to find out where it is most effective.

Bennbrook - it's the clear choice

WHEN Chris Brooks and his brother-in-law, Gary Bennett, decided to set up Bennbrook Windows, they were firm in their belief that first-class customer service would be the core of their business.

Now, many years later, as the business continues to go from strength to strength and as their loyal customer base testifies, quality products and personal attention to detail continue to be very much at its heart.

Bennbrook Windows is very much a traditional family company.

"We always ensure our customers are treated with respect. We know we have built Bennbrook on reputation and will continue to do that," says Chris.

Based at Esgors Farm Industrial Estate in Thornwood, Bennbrook Windows offers a great deal more than its name suggests.

Choose from an impressive range of products, including double and triple glazing, glass units, coloured composite entrance doors, bi-folding doors, French and patio doors in uPVC, aluminium and timber, plus conservatories, porches, fascias and soffits, and block paving, too.

The company is happy to cater for both the public and trade and claims 'no job is too big or too small'. Quality is paramount and you'll find only the best energy-efficient products at very reasonable prices.

Skilled fitting teams work to the highest standards, treating your home with respect and care.

All work comes with an additional insurance-backed guarantee and, as a FENSA registered company, Bennbrook Windows also has superb reviews as a 'Which Trusted Trader' and Checkatrade member. Whatever glazing work you require, why not give these experts a call? They have the experience and expertise needed to ensure your dream construction or renovation project can become a reality.

Bennbrook Windows is open Monday to Friday, from 9am until 5pm, and by appointment only at the weekend.

A splash of colour goes a long way

Improving the outside of your home will not only make it more attractive, it could also add value - and it's not hard to do

If your home has a painted exterior, it won't stay looking good forever because the weather will take its toll. The easiest way to give the exterior a new look is to paint it a different colour, using a high-quality masonry paint.

Even if you're happy with the existing colour, repainting it can work wonders. Discoloured, peeling and patchy paint isn't pretty or practical, and can lead to damage that's expensive to repair.

While you can rarely be as adventurous with the colours you use on the outside of your home as the inside, you don't necessarily have to stick to white, cream or magnolia.

However, you do need to consider what will go with your neighbours' houses, if there are any restrictions (such as planning ones) on the colours you can use, and what suits the style and period of the building.

Having the exterior of your home rendered can really smarten it up, even if it's just the front. Coloured renders are available, so if you find a colour you like, you won't need to paint the render, saving time, effort and money.

With modern-looking properties, wooden cladding (or faux wooden cladding) can work well, especially on the front.

Another good way to improve the front of your home, especially if it's plain and lacking character, is to add a porch. The porch should, of course, be in keeping with the style of the building and needn't be elaborate - a small roof and something to hold up the roof may suffice.

Changing the windows and front door, or replacing an unsightly porch, can also make a big difference to the look of your home. If it's a period property with ugly modern windows, for example, fitting period-style windows will transform the exterior, and interior, and probably make it warmer and quieter too.

Before you start changing the exterior, find out if there are any restrictions on what you can and can't do. Listed buildings usually can't be altered without obtaining listed building consent from the local council, for example.

If you live on 'designated land', which includes conservation areas, you may not be able to do what you want with your home's exterior, or you may need planning permission, especially if your home's permitted development rights have been removed.

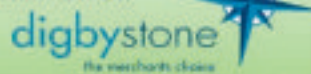

Click on the porch, external walls, windows, etc, on the Interactive House at www.planningportal.co.uk to find out more.

Gardening notes

Make your garden a musical haven, with help from green-fingered DJ Jo Whiley

When Radio 2 presenter Jo Whiley switches off from her busy broadcasting career, she's frequently found tuning in to music of a different kind.

"Music and gardening are my two big passions," she explains. "When I'm gardening, I consciously switch off the radio and completely immerse myself in the sounds of the garden."

"Sound can have such a huge effect on people's emotions. In the same way that someone may blast out a feel-good tune to lift their mood, the tranquil sounds of a garden can make you completely relaxed. Sound plays a big part of my life and my garden can provide a completely different musical backdrop compared to the studio."

Whiley, 51, who lives in an 18th century barn conversion in a village in Northamptonshire with her music executive husband, Steve Morton, and four children, has transformed her garden into a musical paradise, featuring insect-friendly planting, wind chimes and water features.

"My garden sings with the sound of nature throughout the year. There are musical elements all around, from the bamboo wind chime to the trickling of the stream at the bottom of the main lawn."

The garden is sectioned off into different areas and features a rose garden, a veg patch, a main lawn with bordering flower beds, a rockery and a stream flowing underneath a bridge before you reach the open fields at her back gate.

"Across from the stream is a willow tree - my daughter calls it 'Wishing Tree Island' - and it's magical. There's something about the rustling of the leaves and the swooshing sound of the branches blowing in the wind."

"I have a bird table which sits on the patio and this is where we enjoy all sorts of birds chirping throughout the day. We have resident robins, thrushes, herons, woodpeckers and kites."

She has also gone for planting that encourages beneficial insects, and has planted insect hotels and bee houses around the garden.

"The scabiosa and aquilegia attract a lot of bees and my borders hum with the sound of them. We live in a barn conversion and are very aware that we are the temporary occupants and it's the wildlife who really own the place. I hope our garden brings them as much happiness as it does me."

■ Whiley has now teamed up with experts from Wyevale Garden Centres (www.wyevalegardencentres.co.uk), offering tips to help gardeners recreate their own sounds of summer.

WHAT'S ON

Are you ready to rock?

TALENTED: The students taking part in the course

Youngsters got musical for a summer hip hop course

A GROUP of students has taken part in a summer hip hop performance.

Around 75 youngsters arrived at Passmores Academy earlier this month to take part in the three-day dance course.

Run by Harlow-based dance group, Hip Hop Pop, students were put to the test as they learned street moves including locking and popping.

Students were led by Jenny Bater-Sinclair, a professional dancer who is ranked within the top five per cent of street dance teachers in the industry. She was joined by her team of nine tutors and assistants.

The students, who were aged between five and 15 years old, produced a ten-minute routine based around the theme of the Olympics.

Parents and carers were treated to a variety of sport-themed routines from table tennis and swimming, to martial arts and weightlifting.

One parent said: "I want to say a massive thank you to all the Hip Hop Pop team for another fabulous holiday course. My daughter had a fabulous time and is gutted it's all over. The show was amazing and all the kids were brilliant."

Ms Bater-Sinclair said: "This was our best summer course to-date, every single student had a great attitude and drive to learn."

"We promote team work, unity and confidence within our sessions. It's been so lovely to see and hear feedback from many of our students new and old growing in confidence, growing a large skill set and most importantly making friends and feeling a part of something positive. I love my job, and successful summer courses such as this one just adds the cherry on the cake for me."

Hip Hop Pop runs sessions at Harlow Playhouse every Monday and Tuesday evening.

For more information visit www.hiphoppop.co.uk or call Jenny on 07817 774757.

This Sunday's edition of LinkFest offers families an enjoyable afternoon of live music in Harlow Town Park.

The second of two free festivals this year should be a blast if last month's edition is anything to go by, and organisers are hoping for their biggest crowds yet.

Here is what to expect if you're planning on coming to Harlow's premier music event, which runs from 1pm to 8pm on Sunday, August 28 at the park's Bandstand.

Who are the headliners?

Cover bands take centre stage this year, and top of the bill is Are You Experienced? – a tribute to Jimi Hendrix.

Frontman John Campbell bears more than a passing resemblance to Jimi, and joined by bass player Mark Arnold and drummer Kevin O'Grady, the trio offer a complete tribute to the guitar great.

Are You Experienced? are now in their 20th year and have become well known for playing a mixture of hits and album tracks. John is also a great crowd entertainer and regularly invites audience members onto the stage – look out for Foxy Lady!

Who else is playing?

A variety of the best bands in

The full line-up:

- Are You Experienced? - Jimi Hendrix Tribute
- Anthem
- Cadence
- Seven Dials Circus
- Funky Voices
- The Greasy Slicks
- Steve Forward
- Elliot Porter
- ReMark

Harlow are coming down from Funky Voices Choir, who adapt pop songs into a mass vocal form, and Steve Forward, who is well-known for his one-man Pink Floyd tribute.

Regular visitors to Harlow pubs will recognise cover bands such as ReMark and Anthem, who are sure to put on a show and get everyone dancing.

Make sure to look out for Cambridge singer-songwriter Elliot Porter, who has released several EPs and has attracted the attention of BBC Introducing.

The piano man blends powerful chord progression with catchy hooks and strong vocals. LinkFest is in the middle of a busy summer of touring his latest extended play Keep Going.

Cadence, The Greasy Slicks and Seven Dials Circus will also take to the stage throughout the afternoon.

What do I need to pack?

HANDS: Neil Diamond in action

Tribute band 'reaching out'

HELLO Again, a professional Neil Diamond tribute band, are playing a fundraiser in Harlow for St Clare Hospice.

As a preview to their UK and European tour, the band will perform on Thursday, September 1 at St Mary's Church, in Churchgate Street, Old Harlow.

Named after one of Diamond's most famous hits, fans' favourite Hello Again were delighted to help out Hastingswood-based St Clare.

The charity provides support for many in their final stages of life, as well as their families, but needs thousands of pounds every month in donations to operate.

Neil Diamond is one of the most successful American musicians in history, and has sold more than 100 million recordings worldwide. His 32nd album Melody Road was released in 2014.

Doors open at 6.15pm and the concert begins at 7pm. Tickets cost £10 per person and are available from St Mary's Parish Office on (01279) 432135.

The family-friendly nature of LinkFest means visitors need not wear Kevlar, but it is worth making sure your valuables are safe. It would also be a good idea to take a bottle of water and some food. The festival is completely free and there is no ticket or booking needed.

What is the weather going to be like?

Record numbers crammed into the July event, which was largely helped by good weather. Organisers are praying the sun will shine for this edition and early Met Office forecasts suggest Sunday will be cloudy, with temperatures of around 22°C. Music will continue rain or shine so don't forget to pack an umbrella just in case.

They say:

Jamie Pring, LinkFest co-ordinator, said: "We are really looking forward to it. It is a very diverse line-up this time."

"With the choir and the headliner it's got both ends of the spectrum. We are going to do a preview for it at The Water Gardens on the Saturday. We will play some music and people can find out more."

that do not realise it is going on. It is going to be a fantastic day, we are hoping everyone (who came in July) will come back and invite their friends.”

Jamie also thanked LinkFest partners GPCA, Places for People and Bristol Street Motors for their support.

We say:

LinkFest is an independent initiative that supports local musicians and town charities. The festival is celebrating its fifth anniversary, and needs your support to lighten up the summer in the heart of Harlow.

War - what is it good for?

WAR DOGS

COMEDY/DRAMA/ROMANCE: (15) 114mins Director: Todd Phillips Starring: Jonah Hill, Miles Teller, Ana de Armas, JB Blanc, Bradley Cooper

Based on an article in Rolling Stone magazine and a subsequent book, War Dogs heavily dramatizes the true story of two enterprising twentysomethings, who became multi-millionaires as arms dealers to the US military.

Director Todd Phillips, mastermind of The Hangover films, and co-writer Jason Smilovic don't let the truth get in the way of spinning an entertaining yarn.

They embellish the jaw-dropping rags-to-riches narrative with a hare-brained chase through the notorious Triangle of Death to the south of Baghdad, and some fizzing one-liners, which are used as chapter headings to bookmark each stage of the journey.

Miles Teller and Jonah Hill, who garnered numerous awards for their eye-catching work in Whiplash and The Wolf Of Wall Street respectively, are an incendiary double-act.

They clamber over various obstacles thrown in their characters' paths and brazenly wisecrack in the face of death.

Phillips' film opens with TV news footage from the war in Iraq in 2008.

"I see 17,000 dollars," explains massage therapist David Packouz (Teller). "That's what it costs to outfit an American soldier."

Narrating his own extraordinary story, David introduces us to his wife Iz (Ana de Armas), with whom he hopes to raise a family by selling bed sheets to local care homes.

His get-rich-quick scheme flops and David is reluctant to tell his spouse that the boxes of bedding cluttering up their apartment are not their golden ticket to a brighter future.

At this low ebb, David meets his friend Efraim Diveroli (Hill), who has discovered a website which lists contracts that the US military needs to be fulfilled.

"When life kicked me, I stayed down. But Efraim? He kicked back," gushes David, who agrees to become a partner in this shadowy yet highly lucrative business.

The buddies tender for a massive munitions contract with the help of infamous dealer Henry Girard (Bradley Cooper) and underbid by 53 million dollars.

David travels to Albania to

fulfil the contract, aided by his driver Bashkim (JB Blanc), who knows which palms to grease.

When David questions the morality of the business, which he keeps secret from Iz, Efraim immediately hits back.

"This isn't about being pro-war," he counsels David. "It's about being pro-money."

Bolstered by strong performances from the two leads, War Dogs is an engrossing and frequently uproarious comedy of errors.

Phillips and Smilovic's script short changes the supporting characters: Iz exists solely to prick David's conscience with her fleeting words of wisdom.

However, they do they craft some big laughs like when the buddies visit a weapons expo in Las Vegas and David pithily describes the event as "Comic-Con with grenades".

War - what is it good for?

It's very good for lining the pockets of the greedy and the enterprising.

Practically perfect

By Chris Russon

THE Tivoli has become a huge success for SsangYong in Britain and that is a result of a family-friendly formula which makes the car exceptional value for money.

Now the Tivoli is stretching out with the introduction of a longer model which is even more practical.

The Tivoli XLV possesses a huge boot that's almost twice as big as that of the likes of a Nissan Qashqai and it turns the Korean crossover into a super-size load lugger.

With a capacity of 720 litres it can carry four full-size suitcases with ease or a couple or mountain bikes, not to mention the golf clubs, the family pet and all the associated tranklements.

As such the Tivoli becomes as user-friendly as a large MPV yet costs no more than a high end supermini.

Moreover, just like the standard model which has already established itself as SsangYong's fastest selling model in the UK since going on sale only a few months ago, the Tivoli XLV can be had in four-wheel-drive and with a 1.5-tonne towing limit it's a bargain all-round vehicle for action families.

The Tivoli XLV is priced from £18,250 and is available only in top specification trim with 1.6-litre diesel engines mated to either six-speed manual or automatic transmissions.

The autos add £1,000 to the price and the 4x4 costs £1,250 more which overall makes the XLV £1,000 more expensive than the regular top grade Tivoli ELX.

It's keen pricing and SsangYong is determined to make a mark by covering all of its models with a five year, unlimited mileage warranty.

Up front, the XLV is the same as the ELX which sees it fitted with a seven-inch touchscreen, a TomTom sat nav, dual zone air conditioning and a high definition reversing camera as standard equipment.

The difference is all at the rear where the XLV has been extended by almost 10 inches making it 14ft 8ins long – a fraction more than a MINI Clubman or the Qashqai.

The wheelbase on both versions of the Tivoli is the same at 8ft 8ins and the extension has done nothing to upset the Tivoli's looks.

All round the XLV is well proportioned although if used off-road the added length means it is not quite as capable as the shorter version when it comes to tackling angles.

A bonus of the extra overhang is an additional window at the back which has brightened up the cabin and inside the Tivoli XLV feels nicely spacious.

Room all round is good.

There's a fold-down armrest in the rear complete with a couple of cup holders, pockets in every door and on the back of the front seats are an array of elasticated straps which is a sensibly practical touch.

Fit and finish are high standard with contrasting coloured trim, leather seats and full Bluetooth connectivity while there's a few electronic surprises such as a hello and goodbye display on the instrument panel at the start and finish of a journey.

There's also a facility to change the background colours of the instruments as well as altering the feel of the steering and throttle for a sporty feel.

On the road the Tivoli XLV has no bad manners, handles predictably and the diesel is nicely economical.

The engine develops 115ps which gives both the manual and the auto models a 0 to 60 time of 12 seconds, although the manual feels livelier through the gears.

Top speed is 106mph for the manual and 108 for the auto and there is nothing laboured about the car at motorway speeds.

SsangYong claims an official fuel return of 62.8mpg with emissions of 117g/km for the manual and 47.9 and 154g/km for the auto while the 4x4 versions are rated at 57.6mpg (127g/km) and 44.8 (164g/km) respectively.

On paper that makes the XLV marginally thirstier than the standard Tivoli but real world figures are quite similar: We averaged more than 50 to the gallon in the front-wheel-drive manual and saw an impressive mid-40s return from both versions of the automatic – such is the effectiveness of the on-demand 4x4 system which engages the rear wheels only when necessary.

Stop/start is fitted to the manual and while there's no petrol alternative in the XLV – which sees the regular Tivoli priced from less than £13,000 – the XLV is right on the money for such a practical model.

In this price bracket the SsangYong Tivoli XLV has to be considered as the family-sized crossover which ticks the most boxes.

Samba-style futsal set to start up in Harlow

Club to begin sessions for children at Burnt Mill Academy

by Oliver Harbord
sportsdesk@hertssexnews.co.uk

HOW did players such as Ronaldo, Messi, Iniesta, Coutinho, Xavi and Ronaldinho develop the skills that set them apart from other players?

What did they play as children that has made them become the greatest players in the world?

The answer is futsal. The exciting indoor five-a-side game played by millions of children and adults across the world is the only one recognised by FIFA and UEFA.

And now Harlow are getting the chance to join in the fun as a new club is coming to the town.

Having started in Bishop's Stortford, Futsal Club UK are expanding and will start sessions at Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue.

Delighted

Futsal Club UK was set up by Kevan Miles in Stortford, while the Harlow sessions to be looked after by Gavin Earle.

Earle said: "We're delighted to introduce futsal to Harlow and the surrounding area.

"We provide a fun and fantastic environment for children of all ages and abilities to learn and play the sport of futsal.

"We are looking to provide every child the opportunity to train, play in a team and enter festivals and competitions.

"Harlow has seven or so different football clubs, so we were just looking to find the right space.

"The good thing about the club as well is that we are completely independent from any 11-a-side club, so kids can come and play whoever they are attached to.

"It is available to all abilities and we are really looking forward to getting going."

Futsal has been credited by many of the world's best players and coaches in developing an array of skills that makes all children better players both on and off the pitch.

The nature of the sport places a large emphasis on technical skill and ability in situations of high opposition pressure and limited space to manoeuvre.

GREAT FUN: Futsal is coming to Harlow

It creates players who are more comfortable with the ball, make decisions more quickly and gives the players a greater number of opportunities to practice passing, dribbling, turning, shielding, receiving, ball control, one-on-ones and shooting.

Goalkeepers are a key part of the game and will have more shots to save, more decisions to make under pressure, increased distribution of the ball and are important in attacking and counter-attacking to out number the opposition.

Futsal Club UK is providing sessions for all ages on Monday nights, starting from September 5.

School Years 5 and 6 (U10 and 11) will be at 6-7pm, while Years 7 and 8 (U12 and U13) will be 7-8pm.

Then the final session will take place between 8-9pm for Years 9 to 11 (U14-16), all at the sports hall at Burnt Mill Academy.

For more information and how your child can get involved then contact the club at www.futsal-club.co.uk.

As well as Stortford and Harlow, the club are also starting up in Saffron Walden.

GREAT EFFORT: The Harlow Judo Club squad at Theford

Young Owen denied glorious gold in Hutton loss

Judo

FIVE players from Harlow Judo Club competed at a high level Eastern Area Age Banded Championship at Theford, Norfolk on Saturday.

With players attending from as far as Belgium, Holland and Guernsey, it was a very competitive event.

A referee's decision cost young Owen Lambert, ten, the gold medal, having to settle for silver.

Bronze medals were won by Fleur Salhi, ten, and George Franks, nine.

Unfortunately, Jake Salhi, 11, and Thomas Lambert, 15, were unplaced in their groups.

Jake won his first fight but did not progress further, while Thomas lost both his fights but had the hardest group as he was up against experienced black belts two years older than him.

On Sunday, it was the turn of senior player Adam Pope, 20, who competed at the same venue but in the Junior and Senior Championships.

Pope normally competes in the special needs competitions but is making the transition to main stream competitions, however despite fighting hard and going up against tough opposition, he was unable to medal in this difficult event.

Coach Mick Ellis said: "It was a very tough event with my players facing both tough opponents and referees.

"They all fought well considering it was a high level event and I am glad they listened to my instructions."

The club caters for those with special needs and has a coach specifically for this area.

Harlow Judo Club are based in Foldcroft.

For training times you can visit their website at www.harlowjudoclub.com or contact Gill Ellis on gillianellis48@yahoo.co.uk or 07976 955905 for further information.

Town struggle in Hutton loss

CRICKET: In a rain-affected match, Harlow Town suffered a five-wicket defeat at Hutton.

Due to a wet outfield, the match had to be reduced to a 42/39 over a side match, with Town only able to post 193-8.

Bilal Ali was the main run scorer, eventually bowled for 40, while Shiraz Ali struck 36 and Shaun Alderson 37.

With fewer overs in which to get their total, the home side were restricted to 56-3, with Mohammed Ali (2-47) and Daniel Farmer (1-54) picking up wickets.

But Carl Mumba (94no) and Danieli Hagger (56) took Hutton over the line.

WARNING: Assistant manager Spencer Knight

'Hawks must cut out errors to get results'

HARLOW Town assistant manager Spencer Knight says they must cut out individual errors and then results will turn in their favour.

The Hawks lost to Worthing 3-2 on Saturday, followed by a 2-1 defeat to Dulwich Hamlet on Tuesday night in the Ryman Premier.

And Knight believes its only natural now in a division higher they must adjust to the mentality of not always winning.

"Going up a division you tend to get punished more when you make mistakes, so where we would have got away with some of those last season, you don't get that opportunity in this division. "We need to be better in both boxes. We need to finish the chances that we do get and try and keep them out.

"Tuesday night we defended reasonably well. We were missing Ibrahim Sonko and the new lad Alain Moges came in and played really well.

"We were up against a decent team, so I'm not disappointed to have got beat. I'm disappointed to have got beat on Saturday for sure because I think if we played Worthing again, I'd fancy us to beat them.

"It's difficult for the players and us as management staff because we're not used to losing games.

Mentality

"It's something we don't like, obviously, but we need to deal with it and make sure we stop the rot. You don't want to get into the habit of losing games.

"There's me saying last night I'm not too disappointed that we lost the game, but you can't get into that mentality week-in-week-out."

Harlow were undone with two costly errors against Worthing, but Knight conceded they were second best on Tuesday.

"They were two really different games," he added.

"Saturday at Worthing I think we played really well but individual errors cost us.

"We're disappointed with that in the sense that everything we wanted to implement at Worthing was right, the tactics were spot on and we stopped them playing.

"But, we shot ourselves in the foot with two individual errors that cost lead to goals that ultimately cost us any points.

"Tuesday was different in that Dulwich are a side who will be up there at the end of the season.

"They were better than us, so sometimes you have to hold your hands up and say you got beaten by the better team on the night."

With games against Wingate & Finchley and Canvey Island in the space of two days this weekend, Knight hopes they can turn their fortunes around.

"We'll try to lift them after three defeats on the bounce."

WIN DEDICATED TO LATE COACH FISHER

Hill embraces Olympic spirit after 4x400m relay victory

by Matt Mundy

sportsdesk@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW 400m hurdler Alexandra Hill scooped first place for England in the 4x400m team at the Manchester International last week – and then dedicated the win to her late coach.

After a surprise call-up, the 22-year-old, who races for Herts Phoenix Athletic Club, competed against athletes from Wales, Scotland, Ireland, Great Britain Juniors and a combined British Athletics League and UK Women's League team.

And after watching Great Britain's record medal haul at the Rio Olympics, Hill has been inspired to one day represent her country at an Olympic Games in the future.

"At the minute I'm just training hard," she said.

"I work full-time as well so I'm just training hard and seeing where I get to be honest.

Aim

"I got a personal best [PB] at the start of the year and I ran at the British Championships in Birmingham where I made the heats, so my aim next year would be to make the final and compete for places in senior teams.

"But the Olympics is a massive target and something I hope to work towards, especially after watching Rio and all the success we had there.

"I'm so inspired by everyone's performances.

"At the moment it's completely out of reach, so it's something that I would have to build up to, but I would never say never. Anything is a target."

It was Hill's first time representing England which comes just a few months after her coach, a local hero for athletics in Harlow, sadly passed away.

"Nat Fisher was the local hero at Harlow Athletics Club and he passed away a few months ago," Hill added.

"He coached me since I was tiny, even just fun stuff, and then we started training properly since I was 12. It was a huge shock when he passed away.

"It's been a bit of a weird season for me because everything has completely changed, so just going and representing England was a massive surprise and it was all down to him."

But the young athlete was thrilled to come back victorious, and hopes to use this as a stepping stone for more success in the future.

"It was the first time representing England, so it was really exciting but a bit nerve-racking having never competed at that level before.

"I was initially just a reserve. Because it was midweek, one of the girls dropped out, so it was a bit last minute which was a shock, but it was really exciting.

"To be there was good enough so winning was a bonus."

Hill, who was a 400 and 800m flat runner before turning to hurdles, competes for her school in cross-country. She juggles her full-time work in London with training.

"It's definitely a struggle. I work in London and live in Harlow, but luckily enough I work in a sports environment, so they're really flexible and helpful," she added.

"If I've got competitions they will always support me, but it involves getting in at 9-10pm every night and going again the next day.

"It's hard work but it's all good."

TOP SCORE: Skipper Rehman Ahmed hit 77 on Saturday

Harlow CC in for a nervy ending

HARLOW Cricket Club have set up a nervy end to the Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One after a seven-wicket defeat to Harlow Wood on Saturday.

Batting first at Marigolds, Hafiz Yawar Afzal and Alan Jones both fell for 19, with Ahmed Khawaja out for 20.

Skipper Rehman Ahmed showed his solidity with the bat, however others fell around him.

He found some support through Nicky Baxter who made a superb 44 not out batting at number seven.

Ahmed eventually fell for 77, and 23 from Mustanser Meraj took the hosts to 233-8 from their 50 overs.

The early wicket Harlow craved was delivered by Meraj (1-28) as he had Mdamunul Isalm Shihan caught for a duck.

Craig Perrin fell to Mitchell Howarde (1-63) for 10, however opener Raihan Hussain found a partner in Shahbaz Khan.

The pair put on 126, with Hussain striking 100 not out.

Khan was run out for 67, but Maruf Chowdhury saw Wood over the line with 45 not out.

The result consolidates Wood's challenge for promotion but leaves Harlow needing points against Fives & Heronians next week to avoid any final day jitters, just 21 points above the drop zone.

The second XI had an emphatic ten-wicket win over Gidea Park & Romford.

Luke Monger took 3-65 and Luke Heskett 3-40 as Romford reached 184-9 from 50 overs.

But it was more than comfortable for Conor Ramsey and Monger who struck 89 not out and 92 not out respectively.

The third team's match was abandoned as a draw with Shenfield due to rain, however the fourth team clinched promotion from Division Three.

They drew with Woodford Green to stay top of the table, while the fifth XI's match with Birchanger IIs was abandoned, despite Jack Sykes scoring 115.
